PM Planning with Adam (03/05/2026)

📰News for Today

- Initial Jobless Claims Actual (213K) Forecast (215K) Previous (213K) (8:30AM)
- Continuing Jobless Claims Actual (1,868K) Forecast (1,850K) Previous (1,822K) (8:30AM)
- Factory Orders (MoM) (Jan) Previous (-0.7%) (10:00AM)
- $AVGO (Broadcom) — 🚀 +6.5%: Jumped after the AI chipmaker delivered a top- and bottom-line earnings beat and issued stronger-than-expected revenue guidance for the current quarter.
- $OKTA (Okta) — 🟢 +1.6%: Rose after reporting better-than-expected Q4 results, with subscription revenue — its main revenue driver — growing 11%.
- $STUB (StubHub) — 🔴 -13%: Dropped after posting weaker Q4 revenue and swinging to a loss as the company prioritizes product development over near-term growth.
- $KR (Kroger) — 🔴 -0.9%: Slipped after forecasting modest annual sales and profit growth amid an uncertain consumer spending environment under its new CEO.
- $BURL (Burlington Stores) — 🟢 +6.8%: Surged after reporting a Q4 earnings beat and issuing a strong full-year outlook.
- $VSCO (Victoria's Secret) — 🔴 -5.9%: Fell despite beating Q4 expectations and issuing strong guidance, as investors likely took profits after the stock nearly tripled over the past year.

- $BJ (BJ's Wholesale Club) — 🔴 -5%: Dropped after missing Q4 revenue estimates and issuing fiscal 2026 guidance below analyst expectations.
- $CIEN (Ciena) — 🔴 -3.9%: Declined after strong Q1 results but disappointing full-year revenue guidance.
- $JD (JD.com) — 🔴 -1.5%: Slipped after Q4 earnings missed expectations while revenue came in roughly in line with estimates.

🌍 Market Overview — Thursday, March 05, 2026

📰 Futures Slip as Iran Conflict Drags On

U.S. stock futures edged lower Thursday as the conflict between Iran and the joint U.S.–Israel campaign entered its sixth day, keeping markets cautious amid ongoing energy supply fears.

As of early trade:

- Dow futures: −285 points (−0.6%)
- S&P 500 futures: −0.4%
- Nasdaq 100 futures: −0.5%

The pullback follows a strong session Wednesday when stocks rebounded from earlier volatility. The Dow rose 0.5%, the S&P 500 gained 0.8%, and the Nasdaq jumped 1.3%, helped by signs of resilience in the U.S. services sector and easing pressure in bond markets.

Asian markets also stabilized after sharp declines earlier in the week, while European stocks slipped slightly due to concerns over rising energy costs.

🛢️ Oil Extends Rally

Energy markets remain the central driver of risk sentiment.

- Brent crude: ~$83.75 (+2.9%)
- WTI crude: ~$77.08 (+3.2%)

Iranian forces have reportedly targeted vessels in the Strait of Hormuz, effectively halting tanker traffic through the strategic waterway responsible for roughly 20% of global oil and LNG flows.

Oil prices have now climbed for five consecutive sessions, pushing Brent to its highest level since July 2024.

The spike is already showing up at U.S. gas stations, raising concerns that higher energy costs could fuel inflation and become a political issue heading into the upcoming midterm elections.

🏛️ Senate Rejects Measure Limiting Iran Campaign

Domestically, U.S. lawmakers rejected an effort to restrict President Donald Trump from continuing military operations in Iran without congressional approval.

In a 53–47 vote, Republican senators blocked a resolution that would have required formal authorization from Congress to continue strikes against Iranian targets.

The vote underscores Washington's current political support for the campaign, even as concerns grow that the conflict could extend indefinitely.

Meanwhile, missile exchanges between Iran and Israel continued overnight.

🤖 Broadcom Surges on AI Demand

Shares of Broadcom jumped in extended trading after the AI chipmaker delivered strong earnings and guidance.

Key highlights:

- EPS: $2.05 vs $2.02 expected
- Revenue: $19.31B vs $19.21B expected
- Q2 revenue outlook: ~$22B vs ~$20.4B expected

Broadcom also announced a $10 billion share buyback, reinforcing investor confidence.

The company expects AI semiconductor revenue to reach $10.7B, highlighting continued strong demand tied to data centers and artificial intelligence infrastructure.

🇨🇳 China Lowers Growth Ambitions

China opened its annual "Two Sessions" policy meetings by announcing a softer economic growth target for 2026.

Beijing set GDP growth guidance at 4.5%–5%, the weakest target since 1991 and slightly below the consistent 5% goal used in recent years.

Officials emphasized continued fiscal support but signaled a more cautious outlook for the world's second-largest economy.

Analysts described the target as a more pragmatic recognition of slower global demand and structural economic challenges.

🔎Adam's Watchlist

- $QQQ: Looking to go long off the 610's KL for a push up into the 613's KL and potentially the 615's KL. If we break below, I'll be going short off the 610's KL for a push down into the 606.16's KL and potentially the 602.22's KL.
- $AVGO: Looking to go long off the 340's KL for a push up into the 350's KL.
- $OKTA: Looking to go long off the 74's KL for a push up into the 76.37's KL and potentially the 80.54's KL.
- $BURL: Looking to go long off the 332.20's KL for a push up into the 340's KL.
- $TSLA: Looking to go long off the 406's KL for a push up into the 409's KL and potentially the 414.66's KL.
- $XOM: Looking to go long off the 151's KL for a push up into the 151.78's KL and potentially the 153.79's KL.
- $TTD: Looking to go long off the 30.88's KL for a push up into the 31.65's KL and potentially the 33.30's KL.
- $NOW: Looking to go long off the 115's KL for a push up into the 119's KL.

⚡COMMUNITY WATCHLIST⚡

- $NVDA: Looking to go long off the 182.60's KL for a push up into the 184.28's KL.
- $ORCL: Looking to go long off the 152.50's KL for a push up into the 160's KL.
