

PM Planning with Adam (01/16/2026)

News for Today

- Industrial Production (YoY) (Dec) Previous (2.52%) (9:15AM)
- FOMC Member Bowman Speaks (11:00AM)
- PNC Financial ($PNC) +2.8%: Shares rose after the bank posted a 25% jump in Q4 profit, boosted by higher interest income and a rebound in dealmaking activity.
- Regions Financial ($RF) -1.9%: Fell after Q4 adjusted earnings missed expectations, despite revenue growth and a solid full-year performance.
- Taiwan Semiconductor ($TSM) +1%: Added to Thursday's strong gains following a better-than-expected Q4 profit and continued strength in AI-driven chip demand.
- Novo Nordisk ($NOVOb) +4.3%: Climbed after U.K. regulators approved a higher maximum dose — up to 7.2 mg per week — for its obesity treatment Wegovy.
- JB Hunt ($JBHT) -4.1%: Dropped after the logistics firm reported mixed Q4 results, including a decline in revenue versus last year.
- Kraft Heinz ($KHC) -1%: Slipped after Morgan Stanley cut the stock to Underweight, warning of rising competitive pressures that could hinder sales and margin recovery.
- MGM Resorts ($MGM) -2%: Declined following a Morgan Stanley downgrade to Underweight, citing weaker Las Vegas trends expected after Q1 and a demand normalization.

- HP ($HPQ) -3%: Fell after Barclays downgraded the stock to Underweight, pointing to structural challenges across both the PC and printing segments.
-

Market Overview — Friday, January 16, 2026

Futures Rise as Strong Earnings and Firm U.S. Data Lift Sentiment

U.S. stock index futures pushed higher early Friday, supported by upbeat earnings and fresh signs of economic resilience heading into the long weekend.

At 05:55 ET,

- Dow Futures +50 pts (+0.1%)
- S&P 500 Futures +20 pts (+0.3%)
- Nasdaq 100 Futures +150 pts (+0.6%)

The move follows Thursday's rebound, where a blowout quarter from TSMC sparked a broad surge in AI-related names across the globe — sending Nvidia, AMD, Applied Materials, and European chipmakers sharply higher.

Still, all three major averages remain on track for modest weekly losses, with sentiment whipsawed by shifting rate expectations and geopolitical developments.

Tech Extends Rally After TSMC's Record Quarter

The tech sector remained the clear leader on Friday, with chip stocks continuing to build on momentum from TSMC's record-setting Q4 profit.

TSMC — a critical supplier to Nvidia and Apple — reported another quarter of explosive demand tied to AI accelerators and high-performance computing.

- U.S.-listed TSM shares rose further in extended trade
- Taipei-listed shares advanced again overnight

The report reaffirmed the AI-driven capex cycle driving chip demand across both U.S. and global semiconductor markets.

Bank Stocks in Focus as Earnings Roll In

More bank earnings are slated for release Friday, following a week dominated by trading-driven outperformance at America's largest lenders.

PNC Financial, State Street, and M&T Bank all report before the bell, with investors looking for clues on loan growth, deposit costs, and trading activity after a volatile 2025.

This week's prints from JPMorgan, BofA, Citi, and Wells Fargo showed:

- trading desks benefited from a choppy year
- credit conditions remain stable
- uncertainty around Trump's interest-rate cap proposal is weighing on sentiment

Next week brings an even heavier earnings slate:

- Netflix, 3M, U.S. Bancorp (Tuesday)
- Johnson & Johnson (Wednesday)
- Visa, Intel, Abbott, Intuitive Surgical and more later in the week

The Q4 reporting season now begins in earnest.

U.S. Data Shows Continued Strength

Friday's economic calendar includes industrial production and manufacturing output for December, following a week of stronger-than-expected macro releases.

On Thursday:

- Initial jobless claims dropped to 198,000, well below forecasts
- Labor market data reinforced expectations of economic durability

This stronger backdrop has led traders to push back expectations for the first Fed rate cut into mid-2026, with several Fed officials echoing caution:

- Goolsbee: job market still solid, inflation must keep falling
- Schmid: inflation "too hot"
- Daly: incoming data looks encouraging

Rates staying higher for longer remains the market's working assumption.

Oil Rebounds but Still Set for Weekly Gain

Crude prices recovered Friday morning after Thursday's sharp selloff, driven by easing concerns around Iran's protests and potential U.S. military action.

- Brent +1.3% → $64.57
- WTI +1.2% → $59.92

Oil plunged over 4% on Thursday after President Trump said Iran's crackdown appeared to be easing, reducing immediate supply-risk fears.

However, both benchmarks remain higher on the week, having touched multi-month highs earlier after protests in Iran ignited fears of regional instability.

 Adam's Watchlist

- $QQQ: Looking to go long off the 625's KL for a push up into the 627's KL and potentially the 629.85's KL. If we break below, I'll be going short off the 623.30's KL for a push down into the 621's KL and potentially the 618.44's KL.
 - $TSM: Looking to go short off the 345's KL for a push up into the 350.32's KL.
 - $TSLA: Looking to go long off the 441.26's KL for a push up into the 445.36's KL.
 - $W: Looking to go long off the 120's KL for a push up into the 122's KL and potentially the 125's KL.
 - $MU: Looking to go long off the 355's KL for a push up into the 360's KL.
-

 COMMUNITY WATCHLIST

- $RKLB: Looking to go long off the 94's KL for a push up into the 100's KL.
 - $CAT: Looking to go long off the 652.77's KL for a push up into the 660's KL.
 - $AMD: Looking to go long off the 235.89's KL for a push up into the 241.50's KL.
 - $AAPL: Looking to go short off the 256's KL for a push down into the 255's and potentially the 254's KL.
-

