U.S. Futures Rally as AI Momentum Returns Despite Fresh Iran Strikes

U.S. stock futures are pushing higher Tuesday morning as investors return from the holiday weekend and continue leaning into AI-driven optimism, even after renewed military clashes between the U.S. and Iran.

- Dow futures: +254 pts (+0.5%)
- S&P 500 futures: +0.8%
- Nasdaq futures: +1.2%

Tech is leading the rebound again as semiconductor stocks continue benefiting from massive AI demand.

U.S.-Iran conflict escalates again

Markets are reacting to fresh military action after the U.S. reportedly carried out strikes against Iranian vessels and missile infrastructure near the Strait of Hormuz.

According to reports:

- U.S. forces sank two IRGC vessels
- Iran retaliated with missile fire
- Additional U.S. strikes targeted missile launchers near Bandar Abbas

Despite the escalation, officials continue signaling that negotiations toward a broader peace agreement are still ongoing.

👉 Current setup:

- Ceasefire remains fragile
- Diplomacy still active
- Markets cautiously betting escalation stays limited

Oil rebounds but stays below $100

Oil prices moved higher again following the renewed clashes:

- Brent crude: ~$98 (+2.3%)

Although crude remains below the key $100 level, prices are still significantly elevated compared to pre-war levels.

👉 Ongoing concern:

- Energy-driven inflation pressure remains elevated globally

Inflation data becomes key this week

Markets are increasingly focused on upcoming U.S. inflation readings as investors try to gauge how much the oil shock is impacting the broader economy.

Particular focus remains on:

- Gasoline prices
- Consumer inflation spillover
- Potential Fed response

👉 Markets still worried central banks may stay tighter for longer if inflation accelerates further.

AI trade powers the rebound again

AI enthusiasm continues to dominate market sentiment despite geopolitical risks.

Semiconductor stocks were among the biggest gainers premarket:

- Micron Technology ↑
- Intel ↑
- Marvell Technology ↑

👉 Key theme:

- AI demand continues overpowering macro fears

⚠ Breakdown: what's driving the market now?

- AI momentum remains extremely strong
- Fresh Iran strikes raising geopolitical risk
- Oil rebounding
- Inflation data ahead this week

👉 Market = bullish on tech, cautious on macro

📊 Consumer confidence in focus today

Markets are also watching today's U.S. consumer confidence data after a recent University of Michigan survey showed extremely weak sentiment.

👉 Traders want to see if rising gasoline prices are beginning to impact broader consumer behavior.

👁 What traders are watching today

- Iran negotiation headlines
 - Oil price movement
 - AI semiconductor momentum
 - U.S. consumer confidence data
