Rally Cools, Markets Wait for the Next Catalyst

Futures Snapshot

After yesterday's huge relief rally, futures are catching their breath.

- Dow Futures: +0.3%
- S&P 500 Futures: ~Flat
- Nasdaq Futures: -0.1%

🕊️ Iran Deal Optimism Stays Alive — But Details Matter

Markets are still trading around the preliminary U.S.-Iran agreement.

Current expectations:

- Formal signing reportedly targeted Friday
- Extension of ceasefire
- Gradual reopening of the Strait of Hormuz
- Potential easing of restrictions on Iranian shipping

But traders are realizing this isn't instant.

Questions now:

- How fast can shipping actually normalize?
- Does oil supply return quickly?
- Is the ceasefire durable?

That uncertainty cooled yesterday's explosive move.

🛢️ Oil Drops Hard — Biggest Market Shift

Big move overnight:

Brent crude fell below $80

That's a major sentiment change versus the $100+ fear zone markets were pricing weeks ago.

Lower oil could mean:

- Less inflation pressure
- Lower bond yields
- More breathing room for consumers
- Better odds rates stay stable

Energy names may lose momentum while growth sectors benefit.

Fed Meeting Starts Today

The next market-moving event:

Federal Reserve decision → Wednesday

Market expectations:

- Rates held steady
- Investors listening for:
 - Inflation commentary
 - Oil impact discussion
 - Future rate path

Everyone wants to hear how much recent energy shocks still matter.

SpaceX Still Stealing Attention

SpaceX continues to dominate headlines.

After a massive debut:

- Extended gains again
- Valuation now being compared with giants like:
 - Alphabet
 - Apple
 - NVIDIA

Momentum is still there, but expectations are becoming enormous.

Market Focus Today

1. Fed meeting begins
 2. Oil stays under pressure
 3. Iran agreement details emerge
 4. Watch whether tech leadership continues or broadens out
